STEM programming is a critical element of library service that helps to develop science literacy in the community. One way to help build dynamic STEM programs that are engaging, fun, and educational is by reaching out to community organizations and clubs to co-host, offer insight, and provide perspective on STEM topics from experts and enthusiasts. Collaboration with community experts taps a powerful resource for building STEM programming while fostering constructive community partnerships. These partnerships also increase their visibility to the community, offering the chance for science and nature enthusiasts of all ages the opportunity to join a club or society.

This list compiles STEM organizations, clubs, and societies around Ohio, listed by county. The links provided are either active websites or Facebook pages. This is not a comprehensive list. We welcome additions; please send links to jdwyer@library.ohio.gov. Statewide entities such as State Parks, Soil and Water Conservation Districts, and OSU Extension Offices are not listed individually by county. See the directories in the Statewide list below.

Nature centers are a great education resource, and though natural spaces are not included in this list, Ohio's state, county, metro, city, and neighborhood parks make excellent places to host outdoor programming and offer a variety of hiking and outdoor experiences for community members.

Inclusion in this listing does not constitute endorsement of specific organizations by the State Library of Ohio. Links are provided solely for the convenience of libraries.
